Section 2: Overview of IB and its Services

1. Who are we?

IB is an affiliate of Interactive Brokers Group ("IBG"), which comprises of a number of automated global electronic market makers and brokers that specialise in routing orders and executing and processing trades in securities, futures and foreign exchange instruments. IBG affiliates conduct business on more than 60 electronic exchanges and trading venues around the world. IB, using its proprietary software, provides non-advisory brokerage services to professional traders and investors with direct access to stocks, options, futures, forex and bonds from a single IB

Universal AccountSM.

IB is a market participant of the ASX 24 market and the Chi-X Australia market. IB is not an ASX Market Participant, however it engages its proprietary trading affiliate, Timber Hill Australia Pty Limited (ABN 25 079 993 534) ("THA"), which is an ASX Market Participant, as its executing broker in respect of transactions to be executed on ASX.

IB is a wholesale client of THA and all IB client orders for ASX financial products routed through THA's connection to the ASX Integrated Trading System use an electronic communications process dedicated to the routing of only IB customer orders. THA receives a set fee per trade from IB for this service.

A full list of the products IB offers and the worldwide exchanges on which they are offered is available on the IB website at www.interactivebrokers.com.

2. Financial services and financial products we offer

IB holds an Australian Financial Services Licence, under which we are authorised to:

- deal in:
  - Securities;
  - Derivatives; and
  - Foreign exchange contracts; and

- provide custodial and depository services.

IB is authorised to provide the above financial services to retail and wholesale clients.

In relation to the custody of customer's securities, IB acts as custodian for these securities. In markets where IB does not have direct access to the settlement system for the relevant securities markets, IB may appoint a sub-custodian to hold these securities. For example, in relation to ASX quoted securities, IB has appointed a third party clearing and settlement participant's nominee to hold securities in the ASX Settlement system for the benefit of IB, which in turn holds them as custodian for the benefit of its customers who are entitled to those securities. Similar arrangements may apply in other jurisdictions outside Australia. In relation to customer's positions in exchange traded derivatives (such as futures and options), positions are held by IB for the benefit of its customers through clearing participants of the relevant exchanges, where IB is not itself a clearing participant.

3. How you can send IB instructions and contact information

IB's Customers may route orders to IB through their Trader Workstation ("TWS"), Computer to Computer Interface or an Application Programming Interface, by logging in through a secure username and password. ### Section 3: Fees and Charges

1. Commission and Fees

IB charges commission and fees when you buy or sell or enter into or close out most financial products.

The amount of commission or fees payable to IB depends on the pricing structure selected and the product traded. For example, commission may be calculated as a percentage of the trade value with a set minimum charge per order, or as a dollar amount per contract. Current commission and fee information for each pricing structure and type of products is available on the IB website at www.interactivebrokers.com.

You may also request particulars of remuneration (including commission) or other benefits within a reasonable time after receiving this FSG and before any financial service is provided. No IB employee earns a commission for the trades that are self-directed by IB customers. All commissions are earned by the firm.

2. Other Fees and Charges

2.1 Interest Payable and Interest Charged

In certain circumstances, interest may be paid to you or charged to you.

Interest may be payable on credit balances. Factors which affect the amount of interest payable include the currency in which the account is denominated and the amounts held in excess of your margin requirements. No interest is payable on credit balances less than $10,000.00 USD or equivalent.

IB uses internationally recognised benchmarks on overnight deposits as a basis for determining interest rates. We then apply a spread around the benchmark interest rate in tiers, such that larger cash balances receive increasingly better rates, to determine an effective rate.

IB accrues interest on a daily basis and posts actual interest at the end of each month on the monthly statement. For detailed examples on how we calculate interest, and for further information on how to read interest on your statement, please go to the IB website at www.interactivebrokers.com.

Interest is charged when your account balance is in debit. The spreads and effective rates on credit balances, debit balances and short sale proceed balances are shown in the tables on the IB website at www.interactivebrokers.com. We also provide detailed examples on how we calculate interest and information on how to read interest on your statement on that website.

2.2 Market Data, Fundamentals and News

If you require live data then depending on the product you are trading and where that product is based may then you may be required to enter into a subscription agreement with the associated exchange. You are not required to enter into a data subscription to open an account with IB.

Customers can subscribe to paid, real-time market data on exchanges around the world through Account Management. The subscription fee for market data on each exchange offered through IB is listed on the IB website at www.interactivebrokers.com.

In addition, IB provides free delayed data as available, for any product listed on an exchange to which you do not subscribe. Delayed market data is managed in Trader Workstation ("TWS"), and ticker lines that use delayed data are highlighted in yellow for emphasis. For details on managing delayed market data, see the TWS Users' Guide.

We also provide real-time fundamentals and news via subscription-activated Reuters Worldwide Fundamentals and Reuters News Feed, along with various free RSS news feeds, all of which are seamlessly integrated into the TWS trading application. The subscription fee for each of these services are listed on the IB website at www.interactivebrokers.com.

There is no requirement to subscribe to market data in order to trade and customers are free to receive market data from another IB account or data vendor, or to use only delayed market data.

Many exchanges classify customers as non-professional or professional. Exchange rules require that trusts and organisations (e.g. corporations, partnerships, LLCs and unincorporated businesses) must be classified as professional. NYSE and Amex Professional Market Data require prior approval from the exchange information.
